Mary's journey begins with the adoption of her first foster child, a newborn baby girl named Sarah. Sarah is born with severe medical problems, and Mary and her husband are told that she may not live long. But Mary is determined to give Sarah the best life possible, and she showers her with love and care.

As Sarah grows and thrives, Mary begins to open her heart to other foster children. She welcomes into her home a troubled teenager named Jake, a shy and withdrawn boy named David, and a lively and energetic little girl named Emily. Each child comes with their own unique challenges, but Mary is always there for them, providing them with love, support, and guidance.

Mary's journey is not always easy. She faces heartbreak and disappointment when some of her foster children are reunited with their birth families. But she also experiences great joy and fulfillment as she witnesses the children in her care grow and change into happy and healthy individuals.
